European Intellectual Property Law

Intellectual property (IP) is a category of property that includes intangible creations of the human intellect. Intellectual property encompasses two types of rights; industrial property rights (trademarks, patents, designations of origin, industrial designs and models) and copyright. It was not until the 19th century that the term “intellectual property” began to be used, and not until the...

European Intellectual Property Law Intellectual property rights (IPRs) have been acknowledged and protected in the People's Republic of China since the 1980s. The People's Republic of China has acceded to the major international conventions on protection of rights to intellectual property. Domestically, protection of intellectual property law has also been established by government legislation, administrative regulations, and...

WIPO - World Intellectual Property Organization

European Intellectual Property Law The world's number one source for global intellectual property (patents, industrial designs, copyright, trademarks etc.) information, resources, and services.

The Legal 500 Asia Pacific 2019 > Australia > Intellectual ...
European Intellectual Property Law

What are intellectual property rights?

Intellectual property rights are like any other property right. They allow creators, or owners, of patents, trademarks or copyrighted works to control the use and distribution of their creations. These rights are granted to encourage innovation and creativity in various fields such as arts, literature, and technology. They provide creators with the opportunity to protect their intellectual outputs, ensuring that they can profit from their work while preventing unauthorized use, copying, or distribution.

The Legal 500 Asia Pacific 2019 > New Zealand...

European Intellectual Property Law

Search for the best recommended Intellectual property > Intellectual property Law firms, Lawyers, Attorneys in New Zealand |

Final Report from the Expert Group on Intellectual Property Valuation

European Intellectual Property Law

EUROPEAN COMMISSION 2014

Directorate-General for Research and Innovation

Final Report from the Expert Group on Intellectual Property Valuation

Chair:

EALA | The European Air Law Association

European Intellectual Property Law

The European Air Law Association (EALA) was founded in 1988 on the initiative of Professor P. D. Dagtoglou in recognition of the fact that, after many years, air transport policy had become accepted as an indispensable part of the EU integration process.

Publications & Events | White & Case LLP International Law...

European Intellectual Property Law

White & Case lawyers share their expertise through by-lined articles in leading legal, business and scholarly journals and through White & Case publications and events.